

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

P R E F A C E

The materials of which this book is composed were gathered during the last few years while engaged in tracing the ancestry of my children. In the course of that undertaking I proved the descent of my grandmother, Elizabeth Margaret Cuyler, from Hendrick Cuyler, the founder of the Cuyler family in America, and in doing this I discovered so much new and hitherto unpublished matter concerning the early Cuylers in Holland and America that I determined to make a book of it.

Much remains to be done to make the history of the family in anyway complete, but I trust that, even in its imperfect form, this work will prove of some value and interest to the numerous Cuyler descendants.

It is a noteworthy fact that only one man of the name ever emigrated to America, Hendrick Cuyler, the founder, and that every Cuyler in this country and in England correctly claims descent from him and is entitled to bear or quarter his armorial device.

The name Cuyler is of great antiquity, dating back authentically to 1387, an unusual thing in the history of Dutch surnames, and the coat-of-arms is found as early as 1502 in use as an official seal. The unbroken records show that for five hundred years the Cuylers played an important and honorable part in every generation, and a study of a genealogical chart giving the descendants of Hendrick Cuyler and his wife, Annetje Schepmoes, shows that there is scarcely a Dutch family of consequence in New York who are not related to them by consanguinity or affinity.

I wish to acknowledge my indebtedness to Mr. Paul J. Kapteyn, archivist of Amsterdam, for his painstaking researches in Holland, to Mr. Teleman Cuyler for his generous contribution of material relating to the southern branch of the family, and to Mr. Alexander James Wohlhagen of The New York Historical Society for his intelligent and careful assistance in the compilation of this book.

CUYLER ARMS

The Encyclopædia Britannica says: "The best if not the only safe evidence for the origin of armorial bearings is that afforded by seals."

The earliest record of the coat-of-arms is in 1502 when "Thyman Koylert," Alderman of Hasselt, used it as his official seal. The armorial device of that seal is identical with the Cuyler coat-of-arms which is taken from impressions of Hendrick Cuyler's own seal with which his wife Annetje Shepmoes Cuyler sealed her will. He mentions the seal in his will March 21, 1690, as follows: "My youngest son Henry shall have my seal," and his wife making her will July 3, 1702, says that all the provisions of her husband's will shall be carried out. She sealed her will with two clear impressions of his seal which she had in her keeping for their son Henry. There is no motto on the impressions, but the motto belonging to the similar Cuyler arms in Holland is:

"Ik vertrouwt op Gott niet op Pÿlen."
(I trust in God not in arrows.)

In all probability the original bearer of this name was an arbalister or crossbowman, and in course of time he or his descendants, being empowered or assuming the right to bear arms, placed upon their shield a quarrel or cross-bow bolt (keil in old German). The bolt or short arrow shot from the arbalist or cross-bow (as distinguished from the shaft or long arrow shot from the long bow) was in general use throughout Europe during the middle ages, and is first mentioned in a manuscript of the 11th century. The name Cuyler, Keiler or Keyler, as it was spelled in 1532, may be considered as equivalent to our English surname Archer or Bowman.

Blazoning of the seal on the will:

The shield bears a bolt or quarrel in pale with the point upwards between the letters H. C. The crest is three quarrels, the centre in pale, the two others pilewise all points upward on a helmet barred affronté. There is a mantling of the debased 17th century type.

Blazoning of the Coat-of-Arms of Cuylaert of Amsterdam:

“De sinople à une flèche d’or, posee en bande.” (Rietstap, vol. i, p. 499.)

Blazoning of the Coat-of-Arms of Cuyler, Hertfordshire, He de St. Dominique. (Baronet 29th October, 1814):

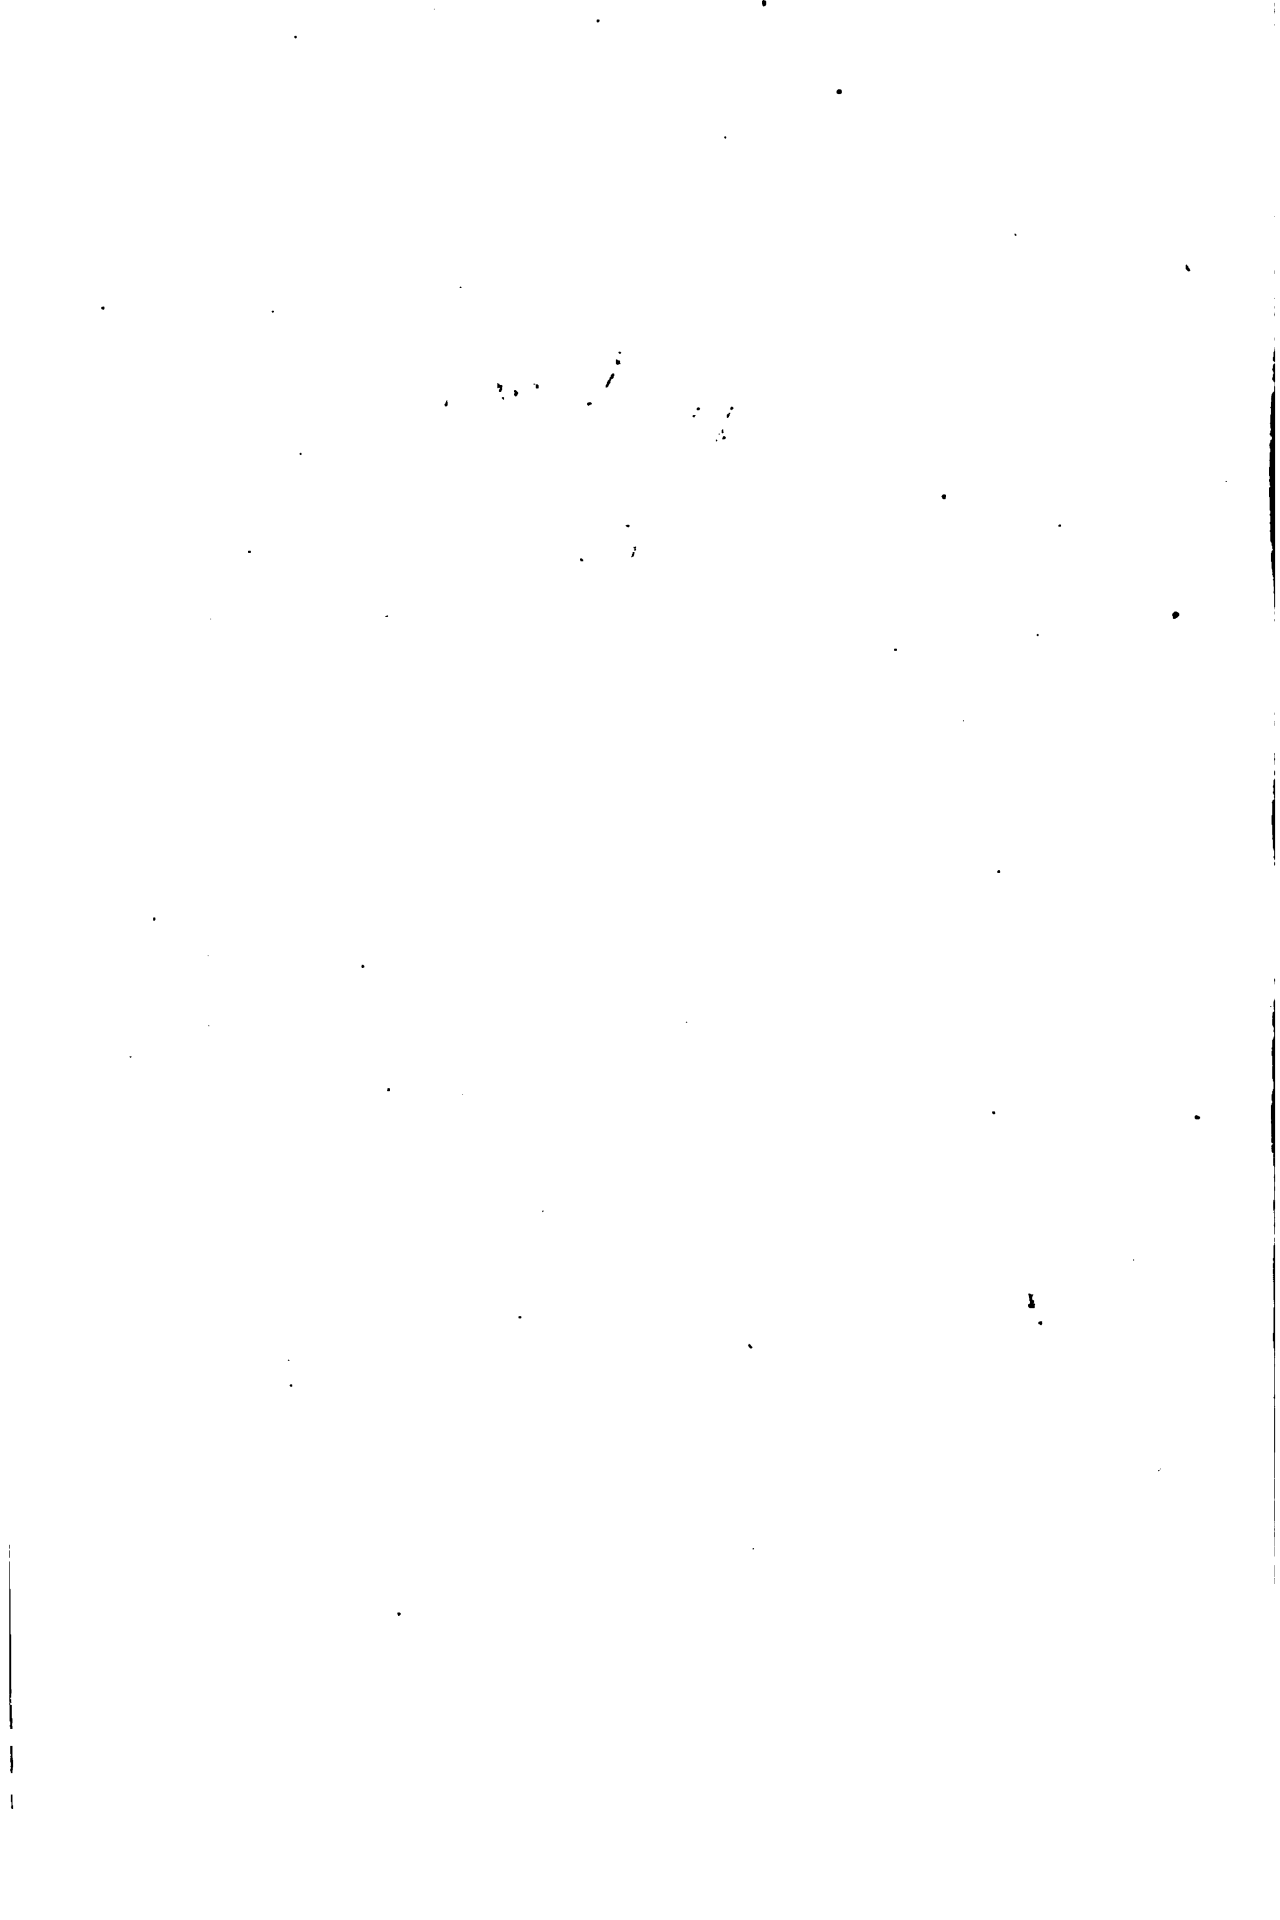

Parti enclavé de gueules et d’azur; à une flèche d’or, armé et empennée d’argent, en bande, brochant sur le parti. Casque timbré d’une couronne murale d’or née d’argent, en bande, brochant sur le parti. C.: deux flèches d’or armé et empennées d’argent passées en saut les pointes en bas, brochant sur une hache d’armes d’argent en pal. Devise: Deo Non Sagittis Fido. (Rietstap, vol. i, p. 499.)

The first time the name Cuyler appears is in an Act dated February 27, 1387, City of Koevorden Province of Drenthe, Holland: “Coÿlert, one of the six warriors of Hermanne Stael.”

The guardians of Arentgen, daughter of Engbert Koylert owe him 59 golden gulden for his share in the house on the Veerstege (now sold)." "This money has been received by Marrichien and her son-in-law Jurrien Vellebier, and they have satisfied Reyner." "Thilman Wichers holds for Reyner Koylert a hat band with gilt letters and buckles, a silver mug, a silver rapier handle, 2 dozen silver buttons and 2 square purses." March 24, 1597, "Reynier has received this silverware from Thilman Wichers' sister in the presence of Jan Adriaens ten Oever and Wolter Claes Reyvers, and has receipted for it." Item about some clothing and one more silver spoon still in Marrien Isebrants' possession. "The goods of Reynier and his sister having been divided, the guardians consent that Marrien Isebrants, the mother, shall have the rents till Reynier is of age, but she must support him till then." (He was about 18.) This inventory was signed March 24, 1597, before the Aldermen Willem Egbers and Harmen Gheryts. March 11, 1600, Jan Adriensz ten Oever proposes to audit the accounts of this inventory as soon as Isebrant Reyners shall return from Amsterdam. (Reyner is now of age.) This Isebrant Reyners could have been a first cousin of Reyner Koylerts, the son of his mother's brother. He could not have been an uncle as he would then have been called Isebrant Isebrants; nor the grandfather Ysebrant Reyniers, as the latter died about 1578, at the time of, or shortly after Reyner Koylert's birth. (Vol. 3202, folio 23.) July 2, 1604, testimony of Lysbet Jans Tonslegers concerning a grave she is to be buried in beside her husband's body, "the white tombstone by the middle gate." band, adding that he died of the plague about 26 years ago. (He was Isebrant Reynerts.) She also mentions his daughter and her step-daughter, Marrichien Isebrants; and his grandson, the present Reyner Koilert. (Vol. 3157, folio 141.)

Jan Henrix is now deceased. Claesien Jans is also called Reyner's "aunt." She might have been the wife of one of his mother's brothers or of his deceased uncle, Engbert Koilert, before she married Koopman; or she could have been Claesien Jans, a daughter of Jan Claes van Marckell, possibly sister of Reynier's aunt, Grieten Jans van Marckell and called "aunt" by courtesy. (She was not a Cuyler or an Isebrant.) The marriage article and certificate were dated November 3, 1613. (Vol. 3188.)

Vol. I, p. 95.) In 1675 he made his brother, Reynier Cuyler, "cnoopemaecker tot Amsterdam" (button maker of Amsterdam) his attorney to receive certain property of Pieter Nicholas Gouverneur, then residing in Amsterdam, Holland. In 1677 Hendrick Cuyler and his wife were in Amsterdam, Holland, where on November 4, they stood sponsors for the child of his brother, Reynier Cuyler, and Petronella Wouters, his wife. In 1680 he owned a lot on the south side of State Street, "near ye fort," in Albany, which after his death passed into the possession of his son-in-law, Peter van Brugh. The latter applied for permission to build a home upon the said land. On January 2, 1680, in Albany, Nicholas de Meyer made a contract as agent for Hendrick Cuyler of Albany, with Jan Nagel Jan Dyckman, Arent Bussing, Adolph Meyer and Jan Delamater to "hew timber for Hendrick Cuyler's house, to be delivered in the ensuing May; part to be delivered at the water side and part in New York at the Burgher's Path for which they were to receive 1300 guilders and $\frac{1}{2}$ ancker of rum, to wit $\frac{1}{3}$ in silver money or sewant, $\frac{1}{3}$ in good winter wheat, and $\frac{1}{3}$ in goods at such price as he (de Meyer) sells at his store for currant sewant." It would seem from this that he built his house in New York and brought the timber down the Hudson. In 1683 he and his wife were members of the church of Jesus Christ, Albany, N. Y. On October 14, 1685, he was commissioned Lieutenant of a Foot Company for the county of Albany, of which John Wendall was Captain. On October 20, 1685, he was commissioned a Justice for the town and county of Albany. On August 16, 1686, he was licensed to purchase a certain piece of land called Adorguta, near to Clausgrowen hook, in the neighborhood of Schenectady, containing about 30 acres of lowland and 50 acres of upland. On September 1, 1686, he petitioned for a license to purchase a piece of land near Schenectady. A patent for land above Schenectady was granted to him on March 30, 1687. License to purchase land of the Indians at Long Reach, below Esopus, was granted May 4, 1687. He was commissioned Major of all the Foot Companies in the city and county of New York on December 16, 1689, at the time of the French and Indian War. Documents Relating to the Colonial History of New York, Vol. 3, has the following mentions of Hendrick Cuyler: Alderman of Albany 1687; Lieut. of Capt. DePeyster's company; complains of Capt. Nicholson in 1689; delivers Ft. James to the Leislerians 1689; Captain of the Fort 1689; his affidavit transmitted to England 1689; substance of his affidavit; mentioned as Major in 1689; one of Leisler's Council 1689; drags Mr. Tudor to the Fort.

His will in low Dutch in his own handwriting is dated March 21, 1690. It was translated by Abraham Gouverneur September 7, 1690. His wife took out Letters of Administration on it November 17, 1690. It was witnessed by Capt. Gerrit Duyckinck and Ensign Pieter de Mill. He named his children in the order given below; directs that "his seal, his gold ring and one silver spoon shall be given to his youngest son Henry," that the underaged children shall be taught to read and write; and he appoints as guardians to his children his brothers-in-law, John van Giesen, Johannes de Wandelaer and Gerrit Hardenberg. He was dead on May 1, 1690, for on that date his widow Anna appeared in Albany in a law suit. His will is filed in the Surrogate's Office, City and County of New York. Liber 14 A, p. 124.

Annetje Schepmoes, his wife, was baptised in the New York Dutch Church February 16, 1642, witnesses: Marÿn Andriaeszen, Lysbeth Thÿs. She was the daughter of Jan Janse Schepmoes and Sarah Pieters. The Register of Betrothments, Archives of Amsterdam has the following: "December 27, 1631, appeared (before the the commissaries of the marriage matters) Jan Jansz Schepmoes of Delft, seafaring man, 26 years of age, orphan, residing in the Brouwerstraat and Saara Pieters of Hoorn, 22 years of age, orphan, living in the Moriaansteegje, assisted by her sister Lysbeth Pieters. Requesting their three proclamations in the church," etc. On May 18, 1643, a grant of land was made by the West India Co. to Jan Janse Schepmoes; it was near Fort Amsterdam. When Sara Pieters remarried she mortgaged this land and the house on it, describing it as: "The house and lot at New Amsterdam, south of Fort Amsterdam, in the Parel straat, occupied by Jacob Strycker." She also set aside 800 carolas guilders for her children, 100 guilders for each child. Jan Janse Schepmoes died in New Amsterdam in January, 1656, and on October 7th of the same year his widow married Willem Cook, at which time Pieter Cornelius Van Veen and Isaac Greveraet were appointed guardians of her children as follows—Anna, Abraham, Aeltje, Dirck, Orseltie, Sara, Jaepie and Willem.

Anna Schepmoes' will is dated July 3, 1702, and was proved March 18, 1702-3. In it her children are given in the same order as in her husband's will. She was buried in the Dutch Churchyard in Nassau Street, New York City. Her will is filed in Liber 7, p. 93, New York, Surrogate's Office. On May 2, 1690, mention is made of an account of Anna, widow of Henry Cuyler, for sundries delivered to the Government. On November 20, 1696, Anna Cuyler in New York shipped goods to Charles Ludowicks, a merchant in London, by the "good ship Calles."

In the autumn of 1768, just after his father's death, he emigrated on account of his health, to Savannah, Georgia, and settled there. He died Sept. 29, 1772, of dropsy, and was buried in the Old Burying Ground (now Colonial Park), Savannah, where his tombstone now stands, inscribed as follows:

"In Memory of
TELEMAN CUYLER
Who departed this Life September the 29, A.D. 1772 in the
42 year of his age.

On Nov. 13, 1772, John Somerville was named administrator of his estate by Governor James Habersham, and the inventory and appraisement of the same was £275, 10 sh. Debts were owed him to the amount of £213, 11 sh., 10¾ pence. Alexander Phoenix owing him £4, 15 sh., 6 pence. Teleman Cuyler is called a mariner and captain in these papers. He married Jeanne Latouche. She was born in New York City, July 14, 1738, and was baptized on the 30th of the same month in the Eglise du Saint Esprit; sponsors: Jacques Fauvières and Jane Haynes. Her descent is as follows: Pierre Latouche and Jeanne Bardin of Villeneuve in Agenois de Guyenne, had Isaac, a Huguenot refugee in England, who married Esther Guillemetton, daughter of Estienne Guillemetton of Charente, and Jeanne Goyon. Their son Jérémie was baptized at the French Church in Bristol England, June 9, 1694, and was brought to America by his parents who settled near New Rochelle, N. Y. He married Jeanne, daughter of Simon Soumain (a goldsmith) and Jeanne Piaud, "la veuve Piaud," who fled from St. Sauveur, La Rochelle, to England, in 1681. Their daughter was Jeanne Latouche. Jeremie Latouche was a prominent merchant in New York City; he exported wheat, was on the grand jury and owned much land, some of it (now Nos. 48, 50 and 52 Pine street) he bought from Thomas Bayeux and built upon, in 1745. He died in 1746 and his will dated Sept. 13, 1742, was proved Aug. 5, 1746. He divided his property between his son Isaac and his daughter Jeanne, who subsequently bought her brother's half; here she lived with her husband till they moved to Savannah.

She is said to have been a very extraordinary woman, a great beauty and finely educated and accomplished for those days. She was a talented musician and spoke several languages. A family tradition describes her as tall with a white skin and dark eyes, hair that touched her knees, small hands and feet, an imperious temper, great vivacity and a keen wit. She was a friend of Lafayette and some of his visiting cards, his letters and presents to her are still preserved by the family. In local history she was known as "the patriotic Mrs. Cuyler of Georgia," and her name has been compared to Nancy Hart's. Meetings were held by the patriots at the Cuyler house on the corner of Bull and Broughton streets in Savannah, and at one of these the resolution was passed which afterward formed the basis of the action of the Provincial Congress in declaring Georgia's adherence to the revolting colonies and her purpose to join with them in armed resistance to the authority of the English crown. At the fall of Savannah Jeanne Cuyler was taken to Charleston under an escort of Continental troops, as Sir James Wright, the English Governor, had offered a reward for her capture and delivery to the British authorities, and after Charleston had surrendered the Commissary General caused her to be transported to Philadelphia, where her expenses were paid by the Commonwealth of Georgia in recognition of her valuable services to the patriots' cause. She lived to an old age in the family of her brother-in-law, Henry Cuyler, Jr., in or near Amboy, New Jersey, and died in September, 1799, and was bur. "Sept. 22 or 23" in the Middle Dutch Church, N. The portraits of Col. Abraham Cuyler and his wife are now in the possession of Jacob Glen Cuyler of South Africa. On the back of the portraits is an inscription written by his son Jacob Glen Cuyler, which is as follows:

"The portraits within this frame of the late Col. Abraham Cuyler, formerly Mayor of the City of Albany, Province of New York, N. America, and Mrs. Cuyler, were sketched by the unfortunate Major John André in 1776, at the time a prisoner at Albany to the Americans. Col. Cuyler was shortly after, for his attachment to and support of the British against the American cause, made prisoner and sent to Hartford in Connecticut—whence he made his escape and joined the British Army under the Command of Sir W. Howe at New York; when he was declared an outlaw and his property confiscated and sold by the Americans.

When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga, 30 miles above Albany, in Oct., 1777, Mrs. Cuyler and her four children, of whom the writer was the youngest and an infant in his mother's arms, proceeded in an open boat down the Hudson River, 160 miles to New York to join her husband.

The subsequent fate of the hapless André is but too well known. These pictures were at the time of Mrs. Cuyler's flight from Albany left with her elder brother, Mr. John Glen of Schenectady, where they remained till his death some 40 years after—when Mrs. E. Holt came into possession of them and sent them to her brother at the Cape of Good Hope.

City, and which was erected in 1763. It has been stated that the Cuyler Sugar House was used by the British soldiers as a prison during the Revolutionary War, but proof of this statement is lacking.

On June 10, 1773, Rivington's New York Gasetteer printed the following:

"ADVERTISEMENT

Double Refin'd	}	Middling	}	Sugar
Single, ditto		and Lump

Muscovado in Barrels, and Molasses as usual. To be sold by HENRY CUYLER, at his Store in the Square, which intends removing the first of May, into the Dwelling House, now occupied by Remsen and Seabury, in Dock-Street, and nearly opposite the Dwelling-House, late the Property of his Father."

At the outbreak of the Revolution Henry Cuyler was a Loyalist and removed to New Jersey where in July, 1776, he was ordered to remove from his house in Newark, but in consideration of his serious sickness, the Provincial Congress directed him to give bond with security in £1000 for the faithful observance of his parole. He never recovered from this sickness, for he left a will dated July 17, 1776, at Newark, which was proved Aug. 28, 1777, at New York. This will was found among the unrecorded wills in the N. Y. Surrogate's Office, and an abstract is published in the Collections of the N. Y. Historical Society for 1902, page 197. After the Revolution his property was confiscated.

On July 24, 1780, Gaine's Mercury contained the following:

"To be sold a public vendue, on Monday, the 14th day of August next,

The Sugar House,

With all the utensils and out houses, belonging to the estate of the late Henry Cuyler, deceased, situate in the north ward of this city. An inventory of the utensils to be seen at H. Gaine's."

On Aug. 14, 1780, the Mercury had the following:

"The Sale of Mr. Cuyler's Sugar House, is postponed until Thursday, the 17th inst., when the Vendue will begin at XI o'clock in the Morning on the premises.

... The Creditors of Henry Cuyler the Elder and younger, are requested to meet at IX o'clock To-morrow Morning at the Coffee-house."

Later the Sugar House became the property of the Rhinelanders. It was taken down in 1892.
